The public the entire product of our gold and silver mines remained in the country, but it is probable that at the end of the year there provable that at the end of the year there is months now since there has been such will be a small balance of coin in our favor, resulting from our trade with foreign countries. The product of our mines for the present year will be between $90.

May, 1877, politics has monopolized the public attention, and much of the time 000,000 and $100,000,000, and the latest advices from the mining regions indicate that a much larger percentage of the rest. A Republican President is carrywhole amount will be on gold than dur-ing several previous years. In view of manner that satisfies nine-tenths of both these indications it is believed that the accumulation of gold in the country at the close of the fiscal year will not be less than $50,000,000. That is what they want, and bill, entitled, "An act to authorize the that is the reason why the deferring of TURNER & DILLON'S, bill, entitled, "An act to authorize the election of women to School offices," which was vetoed by Gov. Robinson. In discussing the matter in his message, he says the bill goes either too far or not far enough. It makes women eligible to any and all offices connected with the Public Schools, including the State Superintendent, School Commissioners, Boards of Education and local Trustees. In these positions they would be charged with making contracts, purchasing materials, building and repairing School-houses, and supervising and directing all matters of that kind, involving the expenditure of $12,000,000 per annum. The Governor holds that there can be no good reason for placing in the hands of women these important and intricate matters, these important and intricate matters, reason for placing in the hands of women these important and intrieate matters, that would not apply with equal force to the less responsible business assigned to Supervisora, Justices of the Pence, Overseers of the Poor, and other positions, "If women are physically and mentally fitted for one class of these stations," says the Governor, "they are equally so for the othera." On the general question of women's fitness for participation in the public government, the message says:

Est at this period in the history of the world auther entainests as the present hardly comport with the wisdom and dignity of legislation. The Good of Nature has appointed different fields of labor, duty, and usefulness for the sexes. His decrees cannot be changed by human legislation. In the education of our children the mother stands far above all superintendents, commissioners, trustees and school teachers. Her influence in the family, in social intercourse and enterprises, outweighs all the mere machinery of benevolence and cluention. To lover her from the high and holy place given her of nature is to degrade her power and to injure rather than benefit the cause of education itself. In all enlightened and Christian nations the experience and observation of ages have tilustrated and defined the relative duties of the sexes in promoting the best interests of society. Few, if any, of the intelligent and right-minded among women desire or would be willing to accept the change which such a law would insugarate.

The Governor says the bill is also "a Th

FOR JUDGE OF THE MUNICIPAL COUR clear infraction of the spirit, if not the letter, of the Constitution," in that it would make woman eligible to important public positions, in filling which she is not permitted to participate as a voter. She could be State Superintendent, but could not vote for a District Trustee. This fact the Governor regards as an inconsistency too great to be incorporated into the policy of the State. A SLAVE-ERA RELIC.—As time clapses, the character of the institution of human THE HON, G. L. CRANMER. slavery, now happily past in our country, more and more assumes the hideous features of barbarism. Stories of the auctionblock and coilles, as agencies for disposing of property in human beings, already take their places with the barbarities of the "dark ages." But nothing of all that period of our country's life will stand out n bolder relief, than the shocking violations of reason and humanity by which the advocates of slavery sought to defend and justify the linstitution. We have the following, from the Richmond (Va.) Enquirer, which appeared when slavery was at the zenith of its power :

Make the laboring man the slavery was at the zenith of its power:

Make the laboring man the slave of society, and he would be better off. Three hundred years of free labor has made laborers a papper bandit. Free society has failed, and that which is not free must be substituted. Free society is a monstrous sbortion, and slavery the healthy, beautiful, and natural being which they are trying unconsciously to adopt. The slaves are governed far better than free laborers of the North are governed. Our negroes are not only better off as to physical comfort than the free laborers of the North, but their moral condition is better. We do not adopt the theory that Ham was the ancestor of the negro race, and to confine the jurisdiction of slavery to that race would weaken its criptural authority, for we read of no negro slavery in ancient times. Slavery, black or white, is necessary. Life and liberty are not inalienable. The Declaration of Independence is exuberantly false and falactions.

This certainly has the quality of comprehensiveness, in that it rejects the ground that the enslavement of the African is to be justified by either his race or his color. Whoever may be "a laboring man"-of whatever race, color or nationality-should be the slave of his employer. "Slavery, black or white, is nee essary." "Free Society is a monstrou abortion, and Slavery is healthy, natura and beautiful?" Such are some of the grounds on which "Scriptural authority for human bondage was for centurie sought to be based

We refer to these matters now, not for the purpose of provoking or renewing a controversy over a dead issue; but rather as a matter of curiosity, and as indicating how rapidly the public mind, in the presence of a new order of things, changes its estimate of past conditions, And yet an occasional review of former things, may have a practical advantage of confirming the older and educating of confirming the older and educating the younger citizens in a just estimate of the younger citizens in a just estimate of the great principles of human rights on make the great principles of human rights on and the principles of human rights on a pullwhich alone free government and true progress can rest.
